

The Lloyd Shaw Foundation Seed Money Program

The seed money program is an important part of the Lloyd Shaw Foundation's commitment to the preservation, restoration and teaching of the folk dances of America. The project was envisioned as being supportive to local dance organizations having a special event (such as a weekend workshop/dance event) and granting them up to $500 to help with the expenses of setting up the event. We would also provide free advertising in our quarterly magazine. To be considered for a grant please print off and fill out the following application, and include a description of the event for which seed money is requested using the following outline:

1. Date(s) of the event.
2. Kind of event (workshop, dance for special event etc.).
3. Your goal in sponsoring the event.
4. Prospective staff.
5. Whom do you expect to draw to the event?
6. What kind of attendance do you anticipate?
7. What is your expected cost? (If possible, include separate faculty, staff and advertising costs)
8. Do you expect to charge enough admission to break even?
9. How much do you anticipate needing from the Foundation to get your plans off the ground?
10. If you charge those attending, and if you make enough profit, would you be willing to repay the Foundation some or all of its grant so that the money could then be made available to some other group?
11. Has this sort of thing been done successfully in your area before?
12. Is there anything else that you feel would support your expectation of a successful event?
